

Society of Engineering Science 51st Annual Technical Meeting

1–3 October 2014

Purdue University, West Lafayette, Indiana, USA

Jump conditions for thin bodies from an action principle

Hanna, James, hannaj@vt.edu, Virginia Tech

ABSTRACT

I will discuss jump conditions across moving discontinuities in strings, sheets, and other thin bodies. Jumps in momentum and energy may be derived from an action principle for an extended body with time-dependent non-material boundaries. Applications include jumping chains, flapping flags, peeling tape, rods impacting surfaces, and maybe even propagating cracks.